By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington — (NEA) — Congressional charges that only $200 worth of U. S. military aid had reached Korea when the shooting started make good headlines, but otherwise they aren't borne out by the story.

Republican Senators Ferguson of Michigan and Knowland of California say they're going to demand investigation of just how much aid Korea did or did not get. Texas Senator Lyndon Johnson's new Armed Services investigating subcommittee is also feeling around on this. The question will probably drag on as long as the Pearl Harbor investigation and be just about as fruitless.

Somebody to blame is wanted badly. A quick look at the record indicates that plenty of goats are grazing around.

U. S. occupation forces in Korea consisted of the 24th Army Corps of two divisions under Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge. When the Russians announced they had pulled all their troops out of North Korea on Dec. 31, 1948, it was felt that the U. S. should do likewise. So the 24th Corps was deactivated Jan. 15, 1949. The last 150 U. S. troops left Korea six months later.

They left behind them 500 U. S. military advisors for the young Korean army of 65,000 men. They also left behind them nearly all of their equipment.

What South Koreans Got
It had an original cost of $50,000, 000 a replacement value of 1949 prices of $110,000,000. Included were:

Small arms for a ground force of 100,000 men plus 50,000,000 rounds of ammunition. Two thousand rocket launchers and 2.4 inch bazookas plus 40,000 rounds of ammunition. An unspecified number of 37 and 57 mm. anti-tank guns, 105 mm. artillery, 60 and 80 mm. mortars plus 700,000 shells. Twenty liaison type planes 4000 motor vehicles and 79 Navy-type vessels including mine-sweepers, landing craft and picket boats.

Subsequently, the Koreans were given $150,000 worth of spare parts to keep this equipment in service. This ought to dispose of the $200 charges mentioned in line one.

On the strength of this equipment, plus 40,000 Japanese rifles and ammunition given earlier to arm their police organizations, the South Koreans built up their forces to an estimated 96,000 men as of June 25, 1950 — a year after the Americans pulled out.

It is noteworthy, however, that no tanks were included in the above, and no air force. The common explanation for this is that the South Korean Army was too anxious to attack the North Koreans. This can be chalked up as an error or a good thing, depending on how you look at it. If the South Koreans had been the aggressors, it is doubtful if they would have got outside help. And they might have got a beating.

What South Koreans Will Get
As for later military assistance to Korea, Congress didn't commit any action on MAP — the military assistance program — until Sept. 28, 1949. Then it took three months to make an arms aid agreement with the Koreans and another three months to get it ratified, on March 29, 1950. This was the first date on which it was legally possible to furnish new military aid to Korea.

Ten million dollars worth of arms aid then was authorized for Korea. But it appears that only $253,000 worth of supplies were delivered before A-day June 25, 1950. The main trouble seems to have been that Korea was not given a high priority by the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

The story of economic aid to Korea is another headache of compounded delays. President Truman first asked Congress for $150,000,000 Korean aid on Jan. 7, 1949. On Oct. 8 — nine months later — Congress gave him $30,000,000.

The following January, the House killed an additional $60,000,000 appropriation for Korean aid by a vote of 193-191. A month later the House reversed this action, but that still gave the Koreans only 40 per cent of the assistance the President had originally asked for the period ending June 30, 1950.

In the last few months, Congress has approved $100,010,000 economic assistance to Korea for the year next June 30. And an undisclosed share of the $303,000,000 military assistance earmarked for the China area will go to Korea.

Investigating all these dabs and delays seems somewhat pointless, however, since aid to Korea is now beyond the bookkeeping stage. Department of Defense has instructed Gen. MacArthur to give all assistance necessary from his supplies in Japan. He requisitions more supplies. More supplies are going direct. The total will run into billions of dollars — not just millions.

Trade Promotion Committee to Meet Thursday

Carson Lewis, chairman of the Trade Promotion Committee, of the Chamber of Commerce has called a meeting of all downtown businesses for 2:30 p. m. Thursday afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce office. This meeting for the purpose of planning store front and street decorations during Fair Week, Sept. 25-30. Hope has been presented this year with an opportunity of decorating in a professional manner and Mr. Lewis urges full attendance at this meeting.

Union Promises Not to Let Strike Spread

Washington, Aug. 23 (AP) — Two striking rail unions promised "for the time being" today to keep their token walkouts from spreading into a tieup of nationwide proportions.

Leaders of 300,000 trainmen and conductors agreed to withdraw their threat to strike one or more major railroads when this week's five-day shutdowns at three terminals and two steel-carrying railroads have run their course.

The White House kept up its determined prodding for a solution to the long wage-hour dispute between the two unions and the nation's principal railroads.

Presidential assistant John R. Steelman asked negotiations committees of the carriers and unions to be ready to resume talks at any moment.

The union chiefs said through a spokesman that they would forego any new walkout orders out of consideration for President Truman's peace efforts. They said the move had not been requested by President Truman but was out of "respect for him." There was no indication how long the voluntary moratorium on strikes would last.

Three terminals were struck Monday in Cleveland, Louisville and St. Paul, and two short but strategic railroads were shut down yesterday. The rail lines were the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern and the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie.

The strikes were called for only five days, in a maneuver by the unions to avoid any strike-ending injunction but to hasten government seizure of the roads. Three times the unions have formally called upon Mr. Truman to seize the properties, saying they'll work for the government at the present wage and hour contract.

Both sides acknowledged there had been no progress at yesterday's White House meetings.

Still in the picture was an offer made by the railroads last Saturday to grant wage increases in exchange for a three-year no-strike agreement. The wage hike to members of the two unions in yard service would amount to 23 cents an hour, to help offset the loss of pay in cutting back from 48 hours to 40 a week.

Narrows to Be Paradise for Fishermen

Th upper end of Narrows Lake, near Kirby, Arkansas will be the scene of some very interesting sights before long. These will consist of battles with Bass, coarctions of Crappie and problems with Pike.

For the Vicksburg District, Corps of Engineers, is announcing the opening for leases of two commercial recreational sites on the upper end of Narrows Reservoir. These sites are NewHope Landing, on the north shore of the upper reaches of Narrows Reservoir, approximately one mile downstream from U. S. Highway 70 bridge across the Little Missouri River at the termination of a graded dirt road providing access to U. S. Highway 70; and at Ponder Creek, located at the confluence of Bear and Ponder Creeks at the termination to a graded dirt road providing access to Arkansas State Highway 27 and U. S. Highway 70 approximately one mile from Kirby, Arkansas.

Sealed bids will be received by the Reservoir Manager, Murfreesboro, Arkansas until 2 p. m., CST, on 14 September 1950 at which time they will be publicly opened. Interested persons may secure bids, detailed maps of each of the proposed commercial areas, and all information concerning the leasing of these sites from the above address, or from the District Engineer, Vicksburg District, P. O. Box 60.

The sites mentioned above will be leased for commercial purposes such as furnishing facilities for mooring or docking privately-owned boats; sale of gasoline and oil; boats and boat accessories; transportation of passengers by boats for hire; and the rental of boats with or without motors. The sale of fishing tackle and bait and incidental supplies also will be permitted.

The terms of the leases for the two sites will be for three years. These sites are for commercial recreation only.

War Closes Narrows Dam Power Plant

Colonel B. C. Fowlkes, Jr., District Engineer, Vicksburg District, Corps of Engineers announced today that due to the uncertainty of the international situation, Narrows Dam and Powerhouse located near Murfreesboro, Arkansas, will be closed to the public for an indefinite period of time beginning September 1, 1950.

This move is made. The Dam and Powerhouse is felt to be sufficiently important to the Nation's security for this measure to be taken. The closing of Narrows Dam and Powerhouse to the public does not entail any restrictions of the Reservoir itself or the Recreational features involved in the operation of the Reservoir. The shore-line of the lake and the access roads already constructed will remain open to vacationers. The roads leading to the East and West abutments and the road having direct access to the Powerhouse will be closed.

No person, without being authorized by the District Engineer of the Vicksburg District will be allowed on the Dam or within the area occupied by the Powerhouse. The date of the closing of Narrows is September 1st.

The cooperation of the public in seeing that this order is carried out is requested. Any further information concerning the areas left open to the public can be secured from the Resident Engineer of Narrows Dam, Murfreesboro, Arkansas.

4 Hope Women to Compete in Contest

Four finalists from Hope will compete in the State finals for the title of Mrs. Hope and Mrs. Arkansas. They are: Mrs. P. J. Holt, mother of two children, Don and Jacqueline. Mrs. Holt is five feet four inches tall and weighs 118 pounds.

Mrs. Manuel Hamm, mother of two children, Caryl and Cheryl. Mrs. Hamm is five feet three and one half inches tall and weighs 120 pounds.

Mrs. Edwin Powell, who has been married two years, is five feet four inches tall and weighs 115 pounds.

Mrs. Jack Bell, who has been married two months, is five feet six inches tall and weighs 124 pounds. Mrs. Bell was runner up in the 1950 Arkansas Maid of cotton contest.

One of the three judges selected to judge the finals will be Mr. Louis Greenwell, well known Little Rock Beauty culture expert.

The two remaining judges will be announced later in the week. An additional award will be made to Arkansas's prettiest mother at the finals to be held in the livestock coliseum Tuesday Aug. 28.

Washington Services

The Rev. C. L. Williams will conduct services in the Washington Presbyterian Church at 11 a. m. Sunday, August 27. The public is invited.

Memphis Branch of Harvester Works on Strike

Memphis Tenn. Aug. 23 (AP) — The Memphis works of International Harvester company was idled today by a strike of about 2,200 production workers.

The employees members of the CIO United Automobile Aircraft and Agricultural Implement Workers union began dropping their tools and walking out at 12:01 a. m. (CST) picket line was set up shortly afterwards.

A group of about 600 workers stood around the gates when the 7 a. m. shift was to report but there was no trouble.

South Koreans Joining With the U. S. Are Assigned a Buddy, Given Irish Nickname

By HAL BOYLE
Korea (AP) — There are some hard Roks with Irish monikers rattling around with the U. S. infantry—thanks to South Korean patriotism and a few GI candy bars and cigarettes.

Allied Republic of Korea troops are called Roks in official United Nations releases.

But many Roks joining up with the American troops to fight the Reds are given Irish nicknames as well in honor of the Korean's reputation as "the Irish of the east."

More and more Roks are being incorporated into American fighting units on a volunteer basis.

The South Korean rookies proudly wear their Irish nicknames of GI-christening on white cloth badges pinned to their breasts for identification purposes.

And they answer to them at roll call in the first battalion of the U. S. 7th cavalry regiment.

That Kim Hwan Row may become a Kimmie O'Toolie or a Reilly and Hak Choo Kang answers to the name of Ryan or Kilroy in an accent no son of Erin would ever recognize. They are about as Irish as the Notre Dame lineup.

But they are first class fighting men in "Clainos Clouters," a battalion commanded by Lt. Col. Peter D. Clainos of Manchester, N. H. His men are known as "the firemen of the western front" because of their emergency roles to backstop holes in the Allied Nakdong river defense line.

Hope Soldier Receives Commission

Sgt. Wm. James M. Downs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Downs of Hope, has been promoted to second lieutenant on the battlefield, his family was notified here today.

Lt. Downs who volunteered for service back in 1939 was commissioned on the battlefield following the battle of the bulge in Germany in 1945. He left the army at the end of the war but later re-enlisted as a master sergeant.

Last month he was mentioned in a dispatch form AP correspondent William Moore as "calmly calling directions for America mortar fire" in chasing the North Koreans off of key ridges near Taejon.

Hope Youth Loses Leg in Accident

William W. Willis, 21, of Hope was critically hurt yesterday when he was operating a heavy truck on Highway 70. Willis went out of control and ran over himself.

As a result the youth's leg had to be amputated below the knee, and his collarbone broken. He also is suffering a severe shock.

Young Willis was operating an asphalt roller when he lost control of the vehicle. He had been clear but the heavy machine had him.

He was rushed to the nearest hospital, but was not given treatment due to the fact that most of the hospital's physicians were in a meeting.

He was brought on to the hospital here where he was smashed leg had to be amputated. Hospital attendants said considerably improved.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Willis, 4140 N. Highway 70, Hope.

Garner's New Novel Deals With Days When Washington Was the Gateway to Texas

Claud Garner, a native of Hope, Arkansas, is the author of CORN BREAD ARISTOCRAT, a new historical novel about Arkansas which will be published by Creative Age Press on September 27. CORNBREAD ARISTOCRAT is the story of a man, Toby Giles, and a town, Washington, Arkansas, in the days when Washington was the jumping-off place on the trail to Texas. It is an exciting, authentic picture of Arkansas in the days just preceding the Civil War.

Mr. Garner was born in Hope, Texas, in 1897, and attended Ouachita Baptist College in Arkadelphia. He is the son of the late Dr. and Mrs. T. J. Garner.

Since leaving college, Mr. Garner has been active in the fruit and vegetable industry, first as a field man, then as sales manager, and finally as a large landowner, grower and packer in Texas. He has now retired from business to devote his entire time to writing.

Mr. Garner's first book, Westback a novel dealing with Mexicans in the Rio Grande Valley, was published in 1947 and received the Texas Arts and Letters Award as the best novel of the year.

Of his own writing, Garner says, "I've always been a businessman. But suddenly I felt that I had to write. Never having studied to be a writer, I just plugged along. I read books on the subject and also took a correspondence course trying to learn to do what I wanted to do. I read other novels and studied the writers' methods of expressing themselves. I worked and worked and finally came up with a pretty good novel. My road to writing has been rough, but it has been worth my time and efforts. Westback with Mexican success for me. I'd even dared to hope, so I decided to try another — a novel about the experiences of my ancestors who came to Arkansas in the 1820s and struggled to make a living when only the rugged individuals survived. They managed to succeed, and I guess I did, too. I sent the new manuscript to my literary agent, Maurice Crahn. He read it and showed it to Creative Age Press, and now it's a book. I'm busy on a third novel at the moment."

Besides writing books, Mr. Garner is the composer of eight popular songs. He has designed and built thirty houses, four in Arkansas, eleven in Florida, fourteen in the Rio Grande Valley, and the one in which he and Mrs. Garner, the former Ruth Stewart Robison of Hope, Arkansas, now lives at Weatherford, Texas. The present Garner house has been built exactly to Mr. Garner's specifications and includes a special wing for his office writing room.

On the property there is also a large private lake stocked with bass, bream and croppie, where, Mr. Garner says, "I can always take five minutes off, walk some six hundred feet and catch fish."

Mr. Garner has a wide reputation throughout Texas and Florida as an angler and huntsman.

Mr. Garner is a member of the Arkansas Chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution, the Consistory of Arkansas A. O. N. M. S. Alemin Temple in Little Rock, the Texas Institute of Letters, and is a former president of the Rotary Club of Weatherford, Texas.

CORNBREAD ARISTOCRAT has been described by New York Literary critic, Eugene Donohue, as "A strong, lusty tale — truly representative of America's heritage — that has sprung from the red soil of Arkansas." Mr. Garner is currently working on a new novel.

Skeleton of Man Found Near Prescott

The skeleton of a man was found yesterday on the Missouri Pacific right-of-way a mile north of Boughton, Nevada County, in the Little Missouri River bottoms. State Police Sergeant Milton Mosler reported here today.

The skeleton was found by a member of a section crew whose foreman, Ernest Chambers, of Emmet, summoned state, Railway and Nevada County officials.

Korean Colonel Surrenders to Americans

By HAL BOYLE

Taegu-Front, Korea, Aug. 22 (Delayed for security reasons. —P) — The 27-year-old commander of a Red Korean artillery regiment walked up to the South Korean lines today with a white flag and surrendered. He is the highest ranked enemy in Allied hands.

"I don't want to see all Korea run the way the Communists now run North Korea," said the commander, a lieutenant colonel. "I don't like the way they treat human beings."

He commanded the 13th regiment of the North Korean 15th division. Now he is spotting Red positions for Allied air and artillery attacks.

"Most of my regiment would like to surrender," he said, "but they are too closely watched by secret political agents in the army. No one can trust another for fear he is a secret agent."

He said another obstacle to a mass surrender of his regiment was the fact he couldn't get his troops, together in large numbers because of incessant American air attacks and artillery barrages.

He came through the South Korean lines alone at 10 a. m. near Taegu.

Cottonmen to Study Problems of Marketing

A meeting of cotton buyers of Hempstead county with members of the county committee of the Production and Marketing Administration will be held at Hope on Thursday August 24 to discuss provision of the cotton marketing quota program and sale of 1950-crop cotton.

Cotton marketing quota regulations provide certain responsibilities for cotton buyers, according to Earl N. Martindale, Chairman of the county PMA Committee. Producers must have a marketing card before they can sell any cotton without penalty, he said, and buyers are required to keep certain records on all cotton purchases.

Marketing quotas have been established for all cotton farms based on acreage allotments. Producers exceeding their acreage allotments may pay a penalty of 15.5 cent per pound on the farm marketing excess to the county committee at the county PMA office and receive a marketing card, or the buyer will be required to collect the penalty on all cotton the producers sell and remit the penalty to the PMA office.

Checking of performance on cotton acreage allotments on under way in the county. Ground measurements and aerial photographs are being used by performance reporters to determine the amount of cotton planted.

Members of the county committee and employees of the county office attended a school of instruction on marketing quota regulations at Hope recently. Those attending the meeting were Guy H. Hicks, T. A. Cornelius, Frances Ware, Henry Tarpley and Cecil F. Guthrie.

Mr. Waterstreet is coming under the recommendation of the Nominating Committee of this church. All church members are urged to be present at this particular service.

Allies Battle to Keep Enemy Off Balance

Tokyo, Thursday, Aug. 23 (Delayed for security reasons. —P) — Doughty boys drove back waves of 50,000 Red Koreans down from the north Taegu on the Korean front Wednesday.

A combined American-Korean attack was hurled against the Red forces within eight miles of Taegu. The heaviest fighting was on the American flank before Taegu.

A breakthrough by the American forces would have opened the way for Communist divisions on Taegu, 12 miles from the front line.

A big push for Taegu was considered imminent but no official mention of the attack was made in the quarters. General MacArthur omitted his early morning summary, a usual indication the situation is generally changed.

On the Taegu front, the United Nations fought over a 100-yard-wide man's land. Big guns and big shells poured deadly fire into the row line and casualties were heavy.

The Reds brought out tanks but kept them in the fighting before Taegu. They lost 11 of them in the fighting.

Col. John Michaelis, commander of the U. S. 27th Infantry, said he expected opening phase of an attack drive on the Taegu supply hub was near at hand.

At a Correspondent's conference in the British Embassy in Tokyo, the next day, a decision, if we can make a decision, we will break the back drive."

AP Correspondent Tombert reported from the front that hundreds of Red tanks were pounding the Communists had shown the front line. No U. S. tanks knocked out in that attack.

Strike Against Newspaper Comes to End

New York Aug. 22.—(AP)—The 10-week strike against the New York World-Telegram and Sun ended last night and the newspaper said it would start publishing again next Monday.

Striking CIO member newspaper guildsmen voted 270 to 90 to accept a two-year contract worked out Saturday.

Picketing that closed the plant when the strike began June 13 stopped immediately after the vote. The management issued a staggered back-to-work orders, starting tomorrow to prepare the big afternoon daily for its reappearance.

Both sides claimed gains in the compromise settlement.

The terms call for a freeze on economy firings for the first year, with advance notice and the privilege of arbitration in the second year; pay raises up to $10 a week for a top minimum wage of $120 a week; and a guaranteed "maintenance of membership" for the guild.

Central College to Go, State Baptists Decide

Little Rock Aug. 23.—(AP)—Financially-troubled Central college will cease operations immediately.

The Arkansas Baptist convention decided this yesterday at a special session. The group upheld by 70 votes the recommendation of its executive committee that the junior college be liquidated.

Seven hundred 52 messengers (delegates) voted for the closing; 682 against.

A committee was named to attend to details of the liquidation. The group includes Irving M. Price, the college's president and L. W. Williams its business manager.

The school now in summer recess won't open this fall.

Central has been operated as a co-educational school at Camp Robinson near North Little Rock since 1947. Before that it operated for many years at Conway as a junior girls college.

Following the business session, the hostess was honored with a pink and blue surprise shower. She was the recipient of many lovely gifts.

Delicious refreshments were served to 11 members, and 4 visitors.

DOROTHY DIX Lonely Widow

Dear Miss Dix: I am a woman of 50, a well-off widow. I am strong and healthy and young for that age. I have three children, all married. They are loving and considerate to me, but they are engaged, as it is right and proper that they should be, in their own families and their own individual lives. I would not be willing to go to live with them nor would they be glad to have me. My married life was not so happy as to leave me any illusions about marriage or husbands, yet I find it lonely and dull living by myself, and tiresome always having to hunt up someone to go out with of an evening, even to the movies. What to do?

Answer: There is no problem greater than that of the woman who at middle age finds that the death of her husband has written in a new chapter of her life, and who does not know how to even begin a new one. She finds herself in a new world in which she does not know her way about, and where she can discern no signposts that will point her to a pleasant road to travel for the remainder of her life journey.

Try Volunteer Work
Many such women with nothing to do find a vital interest and worthy occupation in going in for good deeds. Most of the philanthropies are not only supported but also run by women who find an outlet for their energies in directing the activities of causes and charities, and sitting on boards, and being officers of asylums and hospitals and reformatories and whatnot.

Other women take to globe-trotting and do the traveling they have always longed to do. More than half of the passenger list of every cruise is made up of rich widows who have been to every place under the sun.

Of course, the obvious remedy for the rich widow's loneliness would seem to be marriage, but this is often one in which the cure is worse than the disease. For while no woman whose husband is known to have left her a fortune ever has any trouble in getting another husband, he is no often a matrimonial prize. Successful men prefer debutantes. And so it is generally the man who has failed to make good who wants to hang up his hat in the widow's hall.

This is not always the case, however, and many a middle-aged widow does happily solve her problem by marrying a middle-aged man with whom she has a beautiful friendship and a companionship that makes her last marriage happier than her first.

Dear Miss Dix: I am a young woman unhappily married to a man who tries to dominate me in every way. We don't see things from the same angle and he treats me as if I were a child. I have to ask his opinion about everything I do, but he does as he pleases without consulting me. I have met a married man who is having identical the same trouble in his home. Nothing he does is ever right with his wife. For eight years he has been trying to make her the kind of a woman he wanted her to be, but has failed. We have fallen in love with each other. What shall we do, continue unhappily as we have been, or divorce our mates and marry and be happy? We both have children.

UNHAPPY
Answer: What makes you think that you will get along any more peacefully with each other than you do with your present mates? If you are imagining that you will not have to adapt yourself to a new wife, even as you did to the old, forget it. Every living man and woman has his or her individual peculiarities and eccentricities of temper and temperament and general cussedness, and if you stay married you have to take 'em and like 'em.

So why not make the best of the life partners you have and preserve your homes for your children's sake? That a man is opinionated and likes to have his wife defer to him isn't a serious fault. It is just vanity. Why not cater to it and let him think that you think he is Solomon, if he gets any fun out of it? And if your friend would pay his wife a few of the compliments he is handing you, believe me, he could have her eating out of his hands. You can't reform a woman with a hammer, but you can with a salve-spreader. And don't forget the children. They are the real ones to consider.

Dear Miss Dix: Before we were married my husband took out a small insurance in the name of his parents. He thinks that because his father and mother helped him to receive an education they deserve that much. It is very little and wouldn't be much money in anybody's pocket, but I think the policy should be changed to his wife's name. What are your ideas on the matter?

A READER
Answer: I think that a husband should carry as much insurance for his wife as he can afford, but that she should not be so greedy that she wants to take away even the pittance he has provided for his parents if they are poor. A young wife would be better able to support herself and earn money than an old couple. Don't forget that your husband has obligations to his parents as well as to you, and that you do not show yourself a very alluring wife when you are trying to take everything away from them.

Dear Miss Dix: Five years ago my husband fell in love with a young girl. He tried to be honest and fair about it and told me of it and pleaded for his freedom. He admitted that I had been a good and devoted wife but he had just lost all affection for me. Advised by relatives and friends and chiefly because I loved him so dearly I fought desperately to hold him and refused him the divorce. Today although I still have my husband and my home I have neither. My home is just a house. I am a wife in name only. I am miserable. My nerves are shattered. My health gone. My good looks going. My husband's hatred of me grows daily. He still loves the girl whose happiness and his he says I selfishly ruined for she is married to someone else and is miserable also. Now I offer him his freedom and he says it is too late.

A BITTER WIFE
Answer: There are as many angles to divorce as there are to individual personalities and what is the wise and the right thing for the wife to do when her husband asks her for his freedom depends upon the individual temperament of the man.

Some Are Philanderers
There are men who are born philanderers, and who are constitutionally incapable of ever being faithful to any one woman. There are other men who are good and kind and desirable as husbands but who are fatally weak where women are concerned and whom any designing adventures can have for the taking. Many a middle-aged man who has been a devoted husband and father falls in to the hands of a girl who makes him believe that he is too young for his wife and that he will turn into a gay lad again if he marries her. And when his wife sees that he is about to commit mental and moral suicide by marrying a girl young enough to be his daughter or some hard-faced grafter who cares for nothing but his pocket-book she is justified in refusing to give him a divorce until he has had time to get over his infatuation.

But there are other marriages in which a man finds that his wife is not his mate. They have nothing in common. There is no spiritual correspondence between them. His love for her dies because it has nothing to feed upon. She loses him, is unattractive to him.

Then Fate throws in his way the woman who is his other self and to whom his very soul goes out who gives meaning to life for him. And when this is the case when a wife knows that some other woman can give her husband what she is powerless to give him that this other woman can make him happy while she makes him miserable them all that she can do in kindness to him and for her own self-respect is to let him go. For you cannot coerce love. You cannot make a man love you because it is his duty to. And to hold the body of a husband after his spirit has escaped you is like binding oneself to a rotting corpse. When we do that which makes another unhappy we only make ourselves miserable.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am a business girl quite attractive and with a good job. My problem is this: All my life I have dreamed out a tall handsome man whom I expected to meet some day and marry but I find myself engaged to a young man who is neither tall nor handsome. I must say that he is everything any one could want. He is kind, thoughtful, loving. We have more or less the same education. Like the same books and are quite companionable. But while he is devoted to me I only care for him in a lukewarm fashion. We are to be married soon but I hesitate because I am wondering if I am going to be happy married to a man who isn't my ideal if perhaps I may meet some one after I am married who will be everything I dreamed about.

Answer: My dear child don't you know that every girl that ever lived has this same dream of

Cotton Loop Hurlers Have Bad Night

By The Associated Press

With one exception, games in the Cotton States League Tuesday night could hardly be classed as pitching duels.

The exception was the Natchez-Hot Springs contest, which Natchez won, 5-1, to move into a third-place tie with the Bathers.

Righthander Roy Jayne allowed the Bathers only four hits. Bill Gingerich, also a righthander, allowed the winning Indians five, but they included a double and a triple. Four Hot Springs errors also aided Natchez.

In the other three games there were a total of 70 hits.

Clarksdale pounded out 19 of the safeties in beating El Dorado, 14-10.

No other team did that good, but the least hits any club got was losing El Dorado's eight.

El Dorado used three pitchers in an effort to stop the Clarksdale hitting, which was led by Wayne Haas with a double and three singles and Don Steger and Johnny Zajac with a homer, double and single each. Clyde Baldwin was the winning pitcher.

Monroe got 10 runs in the first inning of a game with Pine Bluff and then didn't get any more. That was enough, though, to beat the league-leading Judges, 10-3. In the big first inning the Sports worked three Pine Bluff pitchers for seven walks and got three hits, one of them a four-run homer by Lenard Morrison. Bill Tremel went the distance for the win. He gave up 12 hits, two more than Monroe got, but kept them well scattered.

Hot Springs pitched 11 innings to down Greenwood, 6-3, in a game that was marked by seven Greenwood errors. A two-run triple by Bob Adams and an error figured in the three runs Greenville scored in the eleventh. Greenwood's Norm Larker had a perfect night at the plate with two doubles and three singles in five times at bat. Winning pitcher Lilburn Smith and loser Bob Virkstis went the route.

Games tonight: Ho Springs at Natchez. Pine Bluff at Monroe. El Dorado at Greenwood. Greenville at Clarksdale.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

Summit, N. Y., Aug. 22 (AP)—His father was a chef on one of those big tramp ships; maybe that's where he gets it. He doesn't get homesick like most fighters; I just get him a radio, a writer's pen and a typewriter to write letters and he's happy. If I'd told him tomorrow he had a fight in Panama he'd be ready to go.

Later someone asked Sadler about his plans if he should lift the title and John's supplied the answer: "There's a return bout clause in the contract, but we'd like to take on all the contenders — we'll go to Europe and fight them all in their own backyards." Sandy just grinned. He likes to travel.

Assault and Battery

Later the talk got around to the assorted tricks used by the crafty Pep the last time they met. "I guess I know all his moves," Sadler observed. "We went 15 rounds last time and he tried everything — I think he must have a battery attached to his ring shoes to give Pep a shock when he tried to step on his opponents' toes. . . . Sadler exploded a laugh that almost blew the interviewers out of the room. Then he tapped his head and said: "This time the battery will be on my back."

The Height Of Something

On the credit side, Dundee was visibly impressed by Sadler's long, heavy right hand. His hand punch, which looked very sharp. "That height is a tremendous help; you can stand off and jab them," Johnny commented. "I'm only about five-five and when I was a featherweight, I fought guys as tall as five-eleven. If I'd had the height, I would have fought some of the real big fellows. . . . Take Ray Robinson. If I was him I'd want to fight Ezzard Charles. He has the height and he can punch."

Going Places

Although he's comparatively young, Sadler already has fought in about ten different countries between tussles with Pep. His manager, Charley Johnston, admits his excursions were partly because of Sandy's inability to get profitable bouts at home, but he added: "Sandy likes to travel."

Cotton Areas Having Boll Weevil Trouble

Little Rock, Aug. 23 (AP)—The weekly crop bulletin service said today control of boll weevil has been difficult in the state's cotton producing areas because of shortage of insecticides, rank growth and heavy rainfall were factors contributing to difficult control measures.

The weekly crop bulletin of the service said farmers in the delta section have hopes for a good crop "if insects can be controlled until next Sept. 1."

But worm damage has reduced prospects of a bumper yield of late corn the report said.

Anthraxosis is a lung disease found among anthracite miners caused by inhaling hard coal dust.

Cementers Play Hope Here Tonight

The Mineral Springs Flyers were flying high at Mineral Springs last night as they delt the Hope Legionnaires a 4-1 blow behind the seven hit hurling of Bob White in Southwest League play.

The Legionnaires were assured a post season playoff in the league however as the El Dorado Lion Oilers are moving up in play in the Nation Semi-Pro Tournament at Wichita and will be unable to participate in the Southwest league playoff. That withdrawal by El Dorado moved all the teams in the league up a notch toward a playoff berth and set the Legionnaires in fourth place. Waldo is first, Camden second, Murfreesboro third and Hope in the fourth spot.

Tonight the Hope Legionnaires play the Okay Cementers in Legion Field at 8:00. This is the first meeting of the two outfits this campaign and the strength of the Okay outfit is unknown. Gilson Ross has not named his starting tosser for tonight's engagement as yet.

Four More Swimmers Try Channel

Dover, England, Aug. 23 (AP)—Four more swimmers plunged into the English channel today — just a few hours after seven men and two women churned their way across the strait in a historic mass crossing.

The latest starter was 18-year-old Philip Mickman, English swimming wonder, who took off from just west of Dover harbor port for his second channel crossing and his first swim from England to France.

He began his try exactly a year from the time he conquered the France-to-England route in 23 hours and 48 minutes.

The other three of today's starters began at Cap Gris Nez, France, heading toward this ancient channel port. One of them — the Belgian Fernand Du Moulin — was so confident he planned to swim back again after a 15-minute rest.

Moulin, who made the crossing last year in 21 hours 48 minutes, tossed off a bottle of champagne and entered the water at 2:36 a. m. (8:30 p. m. Tues.)

He was preceded by Georges Alfonsi, 36-year-old French oil refinery engineer, and Joseph Van Waal, 20-year-old Dutchman from Bergen Op Zoom.

Alfonsi left at 1:19 a. m., Van Waal at 2:27 a. m.

The scene of the French beach this morning was vastly different from yesterday, when 24 swimmers set out in a race won in record time by 41-year-old Hassan Abd-El Rehim, 217-pound Egyptian strongman.

Instead of yesterday's floodlit enclosure and pressing crowds, there were only a few spectators and reporters on the beach. The weather was clear after a thunderstorm earlier in the night.

Rehim won yesterday's race from Cap Gris Nez to Dover with a tremendous closing spurt that overtook Roger Le Morvan of France just off the English shore.

At the beginning of this story it was said the tax rate is "scheduled" to rise at stated intervals in the years ahead. That was the decision of congress recently in making big changes in the social security program.

But when the time comes for the tax to rise, congress may postpone it. It has done that in past years when the social security tax had been scheduled, by congress, to go up.

First Atomic Reactor Set to Work

Brookhaven, N. Y., Aug. 22 (AP)—The first big post-war atomic type, or reactor — barring what Russia may have — went into action here at the Brookhaven National laboratory at 1:30 a. m. (CST) today.

This reactor is designed wholly for research. It can produce heat enough to make electric power for a village of 2,000 to 3,000 inhabitants.

Opening this reactor is one of the big event in atomic work, because of the over's many important uses. Especially at this time, the research fits into not only peacetime science, but H-and other bombs and naval and aviation atomic engines. This reactor is equipped better than anything else of its kind to do research on the discoveries still ahead both in military and peacetime atomic progress.

Other reactors have been built since the war, in Canada, England, France and the United States, but none so powerful as this one. At full power, this new reactor energy output in a few months equals the explosion of an atom bomb.

The reactor stands on the side of a sand dune, just 75 miles from New York City. All that anyone is allowed to see is a six-story, box-shaped, brick and concrete building, having two enormous windows, of green glass, 53 feet high by 33 wide. The reason for the queer windows has not been explained.

The controls are set at the side of a great, squat, square box of concrete, its walls several feet thick, to shield against the rays of the reactor which lies inside.

The inner area of the box is 38 feet square. Here, fitted closely inside, lies the heart of atomic secrets, known as a pile, oven or reactor. It is square. It is made of 69,000 huge, graphite bricks, perforated to form a honeycomb.

The honeycomb holes contain long, narrow aluminum cans, each filled with metallic uranium. This is ordinary uranium, containing both the non-explosive variety and the 235 whose splitting initiates all the atomic possibilities, from bombs to medicine.

Bomb Storage Site in State Is Requested

Washington, Aug. 22 — The Senate is taking Congress for $301,000 to provide for storage of incendiary bombs at the Midwest Ordnance Depot in Arkansas.

Sen. W. L. Barringer told the Senate that the bill authorizes the construction but has not appropriated any money for it.

There are now no storage sheds at the arsenal of the type needed, the general said. He added:

"This is a project for inside storage of incendiary bombs which are left in the open. We certainly do not want to place any of them under present conditions."

The committee is working on President Truman's request for nearly $10,500,000 in additional money for the armed services for the year ending June 30.

Eighteen sheds are "urgently required for inside storage of various types of incendiary bombs in order to provide adequate protection against weather and fire," an army statement to the committee said.

"As this material is now required in quantity to meet the present emergency, its loss would be a grave handicap."

The army said it is now storing incendiary bombs in the open, under canvas covering.

Rep. Norrell (D-Ark) commented that Midwest "was one of the largest incendiary bomb arsenals during the last war."

There is a federal city located there, housing and all."

The army said "this arsenal is one of the best equipped in the country."

The installation is ideally situated from the standpoint of transportation and security — 11 miles from Pine Bluff and 24 miles from Little Rock on the Arkansas river.

The chemical corps has been successful in leasing a major portion of its chemical manufacturing facilities, including portions of the arsenal, to industry which is maintaining them at no cost to the government and is producing chlorine for civilian use.

The $53,000,000 arsenal was built as a temporary structure but much of it is better than the usual wartime temporary construction, the army said, adding:

"The arsenal will remain active and will be maintained as a permanent installation for the principal use of the production of incendiary munitions in the event of mobilization and for production of chemical materials."

Nurse Tells How Hadacol Was So Helpful To Her

Mrs. Jennie Lee Adele, 412 N. 27 St., East St. Louis, Ill., says being a nurse really lets her know when folks are sick. That is why when she tried all sorts of remedies and didn't get relief, she knew she was in bad shape. That was, of course, before she heard about HADACOL and before she found out she had a deficiency of Vitamins B1, B2, Nicotin, and Iron.

Here is Mrs. Adele's own statement: "I have been a nurse for over 14 years. I had to stop working and went to the hospital. I was suffering all kinds of dizzy spells, weakness and growing weaker. I had pains in my chest, and I could hardly eat. My food never seemed to agree with me. I was terribly run down and growing worse. I had tried all kinds of remedies. Don't think I wasn't plenty seared—cause I know, being a nurse, when folks are really in bad shape. . . I heard one day how so many folks were being helped because of HADACOL. I tried it and after 3 bottles I could tell a big improvement. Now I eat anything I want — sleep well and I don't have dizzy spells any more — I am full of energy. The only thing about HADACOL is that I didn't find out about it sooner. Now I am going back to work at last, thanks to wonderful HADACOL."

Why HADACOL Gives Such Fine Results

HADACOL does not bring just symptomatic relief. HADACOL makes it possible to actually

Norrell Says Opposition Swings Over

Washington, Aug. 22 (AP)—Rep. Norrell (D-Ark) says that Rep. Cannon (D-Mo.), who once opposed the proposed Dardanelle dam in Arkansas, now favors it.

Cannon, chairman of the house appropriations committee, blocked funds for the dam last year in line with a recommendation of President Truman that new projects not be started.

Norrell said yesterday that Cannon now is for the dam, on the Arkansas river near Russellville, because of need for additional electric power in the present emergency. Hydro-electric power would be generated at the multipurpose dam.

Norrell said Cannon would join him in pushing for adoption of the senate amendment to the appropriations bill which would allot $1,000,000 to start the $76,000,000 project.

law unless the President approves them. It seems certain he will. Therefore, these changes will be treated as if they had become law. It is suggested that anyone following this series save the individual stories. Repetition will be avoided where possible in the successive stories.)

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Aug. 23 (AP)—Two big changes on old-age pensions have been made in the social security program.

1. Pensions are being increased for everyone now receiving them and all who'll receive them in the future, without exception.

2. The rules have been softened to let more old people get pensions more easily, about 500,000 almost immediately.

Take them separately.

Pensions—

Pensions will actually be raised twice in the next two years: On Sept. 1, 1950 and again, still higher, on July 1, 1952.

Those now on pension or who go on pension before July 1, 1952 will share in the increase which starts Sept. 1, this year. They will not share in the still higher rate starting July 1, 1952.

Only those going on pension after July 1, 1952? Social security further increase that goes into effect on that date.

Until now old-age pensions have ranged upward from $10, the lowest anyone could get, to $48, the most for any retired worker. The average pension has been $28.

Starting Sept. 1, pensions will be raised all along the line, with the minimum raised from 10 to $20 and the maximum from $48 to $68.50. The average then will be 46.

Then, starting July 1, while the new minimum remains at 20, the maximum for a retired worker going on pension that date will be $80. That's the limit, unless Congress boosts it some more in the years ahead.

But what will be the average pension for a retired worker after July 1, 1952? Social security experts figure it will be $50 a month for a retired worker and will remain there for years.

To repeat:

No one going in pension before July 1, 1952 can ever get a bigger pension than $68.50, which will be the maximum until that date.

And only those going on pension after July 1, 1952 can get the new higher rates which start then, with a maximum of $80.

For those already on pension in August, the increase which starts for them in September will show up in the government check mailed them around Oct. 1.

The rules have been softened for old people—

Many old people who have reached 65 had retired or are nearly 65, have worked at one time or another in jobs covered by the social security law. But—

Under the rules in effect until now they did not work long enough in covered jobs to have a right to a pension.

Under the new rules starting Sept. 1 — shortening the time required in covered employment for an old worker to get a pension—many of these old people will find they can get a pension after all.

In order to get the pension, they'll have to apply to their nearest social security office. They'll have to do that anyway to see whether — even under the new rules — they've had enough time in covered employment to get a pension.

Even though they don't get their government check for several months, their pension will start Sept. 1.

Very roughly here — but in more detail in a later story — is an idea of how the rules have been eased for old people who had some work in covered jobs:

Although it was created in 1935, the old-age pension system didn't get under way until Jan. 1, 1937, or, after 1936.

In this month, August, a man who reached 65 and wanted to retire couldn't get a pension unless he had worked in a covered job approximately seven years since 1936.

But now a man of 65 can get a pension, starting Sept. 1, if he had worked in a covered job only 1 1/2 years since 1936.

Of course, the size of the pension for a covered worker depends on several things:

How long he worked in a covered job since 1936 — and therefore paid his tax — and what his average earnings were in that job.

Probably most of the old people who now can get a pension with only 1 1/2 years' covered employment to their credit will get only the $20, the least that can be paid anyone, or maybe $25.

PIN-WORMS

MAY BE A FAMILY AFFAIR

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often tell-tale signs of Pin-Worms... ugly parasites that medical experts say infect one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it. To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do... and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily. Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge... the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

We'd like to get on with the job!

A huge new improvement program that would give Arkansas telephone service second to none has been proposed for the 77 Arkansas exchanges served by this company.

- New facilities needed would do these things:
- ...serve 8,000 families now waiting for service, plus the 3,600 who apply each month.
- ...bring higher grades of service to 15,000 party-line customers.
- ...meet the present demand for rural service.
- ...convert 31 exchanges to dial operation.
- ...add more long distance service.

...restore that plant "flexibility" that will permit filling orders normally as they come in, when and where desired.

We call this plan the Greater Arkansas Telephone Program—for it is the telephone company's expression of faith in the future of this great state.

It would cost an estimated $38 million and could be completed by the end of 1953.

Why Can't We Go Ahead Right Away?

Only one obstacle stands in the way—the present low earnings that will not justify adding millions to the plant investment in Arkansas.

Present earnings are simply inadequate. The company is earning only 1 1/10 per cent on its Arkansas investment—in sharp contrast to the 11 per cent averaged last year by a representative group of 3,000 businesses.

To get on with the job of meeting fully the telephone needs of Arkansas, the company has asked for increased rates. This is the first step in the proposed construction program which will assure you telephone service equal to the world's best.

The company wants to go forward with Arkansas—and it will—just as soon as it has prospects for adequate earnings.

And we will undertake a $38 million telephone program if new rates are granted to provide adequate earnings
